

Once a lion roared at Samson. The Lord helped Samson to kill the lion.

Samson did not tell anyone about this.

Later Samson came to the woods. He found the carcass of the lion. There was honey in it. Bees had made a hive in the carcass. They were storing their honey.

Samson ate some of the honey. He took some of it home to his mother and father.

Samson did not tell anyone about the lion he had killed. But he thought about how strange it was to get honey out of a lion he had killed.

One day Samson made a riddle out of what happened. This is his riddle -

Out of the eater comes food.

Out of the strong comes the sweet.

No one could guess his riddle! Finally someone got Samson to tell the answer. (The story is in Judges 14:5-6, 8-9 and 12-14)
